Washburn University (WU) is a co-educational, public institution of higher learning in? Topeka, Kansas, United States. It offers undergraduate and graduate programs, as well as professional programs in law and business. Washburn has 550 faculty members, who teach more than 6,100 undergraduate students and nearly 800 graduate students. The university's assets include a $152 million endowment. Established in 2008, the partnership between WU and ZISU is one of the longest standing and most important relationships Washburn University has. Our partnership continues to strengthen and grow, as can be seen by recent campus visits from ZISU Deputy Director in the Division of International Exchanges and Cooperation, Mrs. May Tao and Baili Zhang. The steady exchange of faculty and students has greatly helped to international our campuses and we look forward to our continued partnership into the 21st century. Each year, we anticipate some of our best exchange students will come from ZISU as can be expected from the prestigious groups sent previously. From the many ZISU performers and participants in the Celebration of Culture, International Club and campus events, we can see that the ZISU students are eager and enthusiastic to get involved at WU. We have come to expect intelligent leaders and kind compassionate students coming from ZISU each year. The ZISU students have great attitudes, adjust quickly, can be relied on for event participation and are treasured by Washburn University. The students are also quick to incorporate into multicultural groups on campus and make connections to diverse populations. In short, we truly cherish and are sincerely grateful for the ZISU exchange students at WU. While many ZISU students have been most impressive in regards to performance at WU, the one that stands out the most and still lives in the memories of most people at WU is Fu Chenning, who won the English Speech Competition at WU in 2009. The English Speech Competition is open to all WU students, both international and domestic. Fu's rousing and thoughtful speech won first prize in the completion, even as a second language learner. It was a performance that, to this day, is fondly remembered and a point of pride for International Programs and an inspiration to our students in the Intensive English Program. We believe that global internationalization will further bridge our two institutions. WU hopes to be able to receive and send students, faculty and staff at a consistent and sustainable pace well into the 21st century. It's not unrealistic to image our two institutions even collaborating in degree programs sometime in the future. The ZISU students have made a monumental difference internationalizing our campus and community and because of them a deeper understanding and appreciation for China and international affairs has occurred here. We hope to continue to send faculty to ZISU and increase our study abroad numbers to ZISU in the future. Director of International Programs of Washburn University, USA
